CARRIED ENTIRE STATE BY FIGURES THAT VARY FROM TEN TO TWENTY THOUSAND.

WILSON ALSO WON OUT

Carried His Home State Against Opposition—Plans of Campaign Managers of Rival Candidates.

NEWARK, N. J., May 20.—Colonel Roosevelt on the republican side and Woodrow Wilson on the democratic side, were overwhelming winners in yesterday's primary in New Jersey according to nearly complete returns this morning.

Roosevelt's victory was a clean sweep and the former president will apparently have every one of the state's 28 delegates at the Chicago convention. In the preference vote this plurality was fully ten thousands over Taft.

The result exceeded the expectations of even the most enthusiastic Roosevelt leaders. In some districts Colonel Roosevelt received ten to one votes over Taft.

Governor Wilson on the democratic side, claimed a victory only a trifle less complete than that of Roosevelt. The governor lost four delegates out of the twenty-eight, and these four were elected from Essex county, the stronghold of the national anti-Wilson league which he had no hope of winning.

Returns stand Governor Wilson 24 delegates "Uninstructed" four. Wilson's vote was a striking blow to his opponent, being in a ratio of about six to one. Some districts went for Wilson by as high as twenty to one.

The La Follette vote was an unfortunate factor, not more than two percent of the entire vote cast. The vote in nearly all sections of the state was light.

Early today Gordon D. Whiting, chairman of the Roosevelt executive committee of New York, made the following statement:

"New Jersey has come through handsomely. The men who make up the rank and file of the republican party and who carried the state by 80,000 at the end of Roosevelt's administration have shown that they are still loyal to their old leader. They hail with delight his return to the command of the republican party and they will give him 80,000 again in November. Roosevelt has halted the machine leaders and will not turn the party back to its first principles."

New Jersey's primary is the last but one (South Dakota) to be held before the great political convention in Chicago.

Chairman's Statement.

Trenton, N. J., May 20.—Edward J. Grosvenor, chairman of the democratic state committee, had this to say on the primaries:

"The result of the primaries must be taken as a most emphatic endorsement of Gov. Wilson and the progressive policies which he represents. There cannot longer be any doubt that Woodrow Wilson is the real leader of the democratic party in New Jersey."

Clean Sweep.

Latest figures indicated that Col. Roosevelt's plurality over President Taft might run up to fifteen thousand and he has carried both the Third and Sixth districts which were early in the doubtful column and that he will have all the delegates. Some of the Roosevelt leaders estimate it as high as twenty thousand.

Is Satisfied.

Governor Woodrow Wilson had the following to say today on the result of the New Jersey primary election:

"I have never doubted the result, but I am none the less delighted and grateful that the democrats of the state have stood by me so generously and with so unmistakably a verdict."

"Their approval makes me very happy because it is their judgment of the new regime in our politics by New Jersey and means that the new order is to be maintained with steadfastness and enthusiasm."

Roosevelt Pleased.

Over his May 20.—"The result in New Jersey speaks for itself," said Colonel Roosevelt today. "I don't see that Jersey has left much for me to say."

The Colonel was greatly elated at the outcome of the primaries. He said that after the Ohio vote he has asserted the contest for the presidential nomination had been settled, so that the result in New Jersey, in his opinion, did not alter the situation.

"I have received no late returns. My latest information seems to make it certain I have carried the state by a substantial majority," he added, smilingly. "I can afford to be conservative now."

The Colonel was asked whether he would now begin to make plans for the full campaign since he felt confident of obtaining the nomination.

"In the course of a long period as a hunter," he said, "I have learned never to divide the bear skin until the bear is dead."

Party Principle.

New York, May 20.—William Barnes Jr., chairman of the republican state committee today said that the contest for the presidential nomination was one of principle, not of men. He said that the delegates from the state of New York will go to Chicago pledged to the platform of principles adopted by the Rochester convention.

"Mr. Roosevelt's platform if his candidacy should be accepted, the republican party must officially endorse this is the rule of the people without restriction through constitutional form," continued his statement. "Mr. Roosevelt knows," said Barnes, "that every other student of history knows that no democracy can endure on that basis and that the people themselves are the first to recognize this and turn to an individual to rule them.

Ends Appeal.

Washington, May 20.—So far as direct appeal to the voters of the country is concerned, Col. Roosevelt's complete victory in New Jersey has brought to a close the unprecedentedly hard fight in which Mr. Roosevelt, President Taft and Senator La Follette have been almost constantly engaged for the last three months.

Senator Dixon, campaign manager for Roosevelt, returned to Washington from New York today and made the prediction that Roosevelt would have more than six hundred delegates on the first ballot at the Chicago convention exclusive of contested delegates. Included in this number he said, would be more than thirty from New York.

President Taft's manager, Congressman McKinley, Illinois, asserted that the President's actual strength at present was five hundred and seventy-four delegates exclusive of delegates at large in Ohio or Texas. He was emphatic in his prediction of a nomination for the President on the first ballot.

In practically all states where direct primaries were held for the election of national candidates, Colonel Roosevelt won pronounced victories over President Taft. This fact has been in such cases advanced by his campaign manager as increasing evidence of the certainty of his nomination at Chicago.

The Washington headquarters of all the republican candidates will close this week and managers and their assistants will establish themselves in Chicago Monday for the opening of the battle before the national convention.

The Taft attorneys, former Senator Dick, Ohio, and Fred C. Bryan, Washington, have completed their defense of all the cases where the Roosevelt forces are contesting delegates. It is understood all briefs and evidence will be filed with Secretary Hayward in Chicago before tonight.

The attitude of the Taft managers here indicates they will lend their full support to Chairman Harry S. New in the effort to seat Senator Ellison Root of New York as temporary chairman of the convention.

"That is, of course, subject to change," said the Senator. Other Roosevelt leaders here, while refusing to discuss the situation openly, do not hesitate to predict a fight in the convention the moment the name of a temporary chairman is proposed.

Montana May Avoid Indorsement.

Butte, Mont., May 20.—Democrats of Montana assembled in state convention here today to name eight delegates and an equal number of alternates to the national convention. Owing to a marked division of sentiment in regards to the choice for the presidential nomination it is thought likely an uninstructed delegation will be sent to Baltimore.

TOOLS NOT DROPPED FROM THE FREE LIST ON VOTE.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Curtis Guild, Jr., American ambassador to St. Petersburg, talked with Taft today about diplomatic affairs in Russia, the Orient and the near East. Mr. Guild has been mentioned as a successor to Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts. He declared that if all the republican factions in Massachusetts were to ask him to make the race he would feel it his duty to do so.

TOOLS NOT DROPPED FROM THE FREE LIST ON VOTE.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—A spirited debate was precipitated when Senator Pomerehne offered an amendment in the senate today to take machine tools from the house free list and assess a duty of 20 percent. It concluded the cut made by the house was too drastic. The amendment was defeated 43 to 18.

FOUR MORE DEATHS FROM THE MACHINE'S EXPLOSION

DOWNED AMENDMENT TO THE METAL TARIFF.

VILLARAL, Spain, May 20.—Four additional deaths have occurred among the injured in the fire which burned down a cinematograph theatre here yesterday afternoon and the total fatalities is now eighty-four. The proprietor of the theatre has been arrested on the charge of giving performances without a license and without submitting his apparatus to examination by the authorities.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—By a vote of 35 to 34 the senate today voted down an amendment to the metal tariff bill placing a large number of farming implements on the free list. Practically all of the affirmative votes were cast by democratic senators, but several republican senators were absent.

Making The Rent Income Pay The Rent Expense

DAYTON, Ohio, May 20.—Wilbur Wright, who has been dangerously ill with typhoid fever, is about the same but it seems there is little hope for him according to Dr. D. B. Conklin, his physician.

You'd be surprised to know how many people in this city live in nice houses or apartments "rent free"—or nearly so—by subletting furnished rooms for practically enough to pay their own landlords.

This involves a quick resort to classified advertising whenever the need arises—in order that the occasional exit of a roomer may not make a serious break in the income.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 20.—A dynamite cartridge exploded at a late hour last night on one of the staircases of the house of parliament, smashing a large number of windows, but otherwise not causing any serious damage. It is believed the cartridge was placed in the building during the recent labor troubles and rioting.

A minor league sensation is Ralph Capron, of the Milwaukee club. They say he's out-bubbling Cobb. He is hitting over .600, and some enthusiastic Milwaukee fans declare that he runs bases so fast it hurts their eyes to watch him. Capron will soon join the Pittsburgh Nationals, and when he does there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth in Milwaukee.

New Orleans has traded outfielder Melton to Louisville for outfielder Joe Stanley.

Matt Larkin, who won $32,000 in wagers on Johnson at Reno, says he won't be a spectator at the Johnson-Flynn fight because the scrap will be tame and short.

Stephen J. Farrell, of Ohio State University, has been appointed coach of the University of Michigan track team and trainer of all Michigan athletes. He succeeds Dr. A. E. Kraenzlein, who resigned because of the ill-health of his wife.

The ball players union idea isn't taking a bit with American league players. Some of them, however, want an accredited representative to deal with the national commission and club owners in their behalf. Such a representative would advise players as to contracts to settle salary differences between players and club owners and prepare the players' cases in conflicts with the national commission.

The idea looks to us like a good one. A lot of fellows in the league who are mighty good ball players have about as much knowledge of business as a chicken has of the fourth dimension.

The athletes to represent the United States in the Olympic games will be selected at a meeting of the team selection committee at New York on June 10.

George Stovall denies a report that he is to succeed Bobby Wallace as manager of the St. Louis American team. "I am hustling for Wallace, and I'm not after anyone's job," says Stovall. "Wallace deserves better luck than he's getting."

President Marshall Henderson, of Pittsburgh United States league club, wants to drop New York and Washington from the league as neither team is drawing. The other teams in the new league are said to be making money.

The Milwaukee baseball club of the American Association is owned by a woman—Mrs. Charles Haveron. She is said to be very pretty, but this fact doesn't seem to help the club out much in the way of getting games. It has had poor luck this season, and is hovering pretty close to the fall of the league.

"I would rather have $20,000 added to my bank account and an 'ax' before my name than have people say he retired and is too slow to get back into the game," says Al Walcott. The most of us could stand two or three "axes" before our names for $20,000.

BASEBALL NOTES.

"Lefty" Jacobson, the former Washington pitcher, is doing some fancy twirling for the St. Thomas team in the Canadian League.

Fred Odwell, formerly of the Cincinnati Reds, has succeeded William Johnston as manager of the Marion team in the Ohio State League.

Ty Cobb is not the only one. Several years ago "Kid" Gleason, playing in Baltimore jumped into the grandstand and walloped a spectator. Frank Fogarty, the "Dublin" infielder, is making out of the Chicago White Sox and doing his share in keeping the Sox up in the race.

"Cy" Young says that the Boston Red Sox outfield, Speaker, Hooper and Lewis, flashes the most spectacular work he has witnessed on a ball field.

Up to May 22 the Pittsburgh Pirates had 12 postponed games on their schedule.

"Josh" Clarke, recently released by Kansas City, has refused an offer from the New Orleans club.

Billy Jones, the stubby outfielder from Maine, has been released by the Boston Nationals to the Louisville club.

Hank Perry, of Detroit Local Number 1, has been doing some nice work in the outfield during Ty Cobb's absence.

The most valuable player in the Pacific Coast League will be presented with an automobile at the close of the season.

Manager Johnny Kling is working his head off trying to keep the Boston Braves in the running, but the Braves don't seem to be able to start anything.

Perhaps another Gregg will break into the big show next season. The Dubuque Threshers League team has a pitcher Gregg who performs something after the fashion of Veau, the Nap star.

The Champion Athletics are not alone in the hard struggle to get started, as a large number of baseball champions have been up against it so far this season. New Orleans, in the Southern League; Dayton, in the Central League; Peoria, in the Threshers League; Austin, in the Texas League; Portland, in the Pacific Coast League; Rockford, in the Wis-

Let Us Think.

Much thinking attenuates the frame, and a hasty temper has the same effect. Those who think little and take things easy are most apt to become corpulent. "Fat panaches," says Shakespeare, "make lean pates." Yet, lest we forget: The biggest eaters are often the most emaciated of men. They eat so much it makes them poor to tote it.

INDIANAPOLIS TEAM IS MAKING POOR SHOWING; BUT DON'T BLAME WOODRUFF

Flader Woodruff.

The Indianapolis baseball team in the American Association is making a poor showing this season; in fact, the poorest of any of the teams in the league. This means, of course, that the individual players are not up to the scratch. A few are doing good work, however, and in this class belongs Woodruff, the veteran left fielder.

The fast work of the Chicago American League team thus far this year has filled White Sox fans with a great hope. They are already planning on the return of the pennant to Chicago this year. Manager Callahan is more of a wonder this season than ever; he certainly is playing a great game, both in the field and at bat. Two of his players who are working like trojans to keep Chicago at the top are Ed Walsh and Mattie McIntyre.

WILL RETIRE FROM STAGE VERY SOON

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe Plan to Leave the Footlights in Two Years.

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe, who delighted the Jansville audience with their finished presentation of Shakespeare's comedy "Twelfth Night," some weeks ago, have announced that after two more seasons they will retire permanently from the stage. For some time it has been their purpose to set a final limit to their dramatic activities.

Next season they will make their final appearance in the East and the year following they will devote almost exclusively to the South and Far West, and so, in two years of forty weeks each, cover the entire country. Their final leave taking will occur at Manhattan Opera House, New York, in June, 1914.

Miss Marlowe explained today that she had been actively engaged as an actress since she was twelve years old; that her husband, Mr. Sothern, had also been on the stage since he was a youth, and that both had come to the conclusion that they were entitled to say good-bye to the profession to which they had given so many years of toil.

Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe joined forces nearly eight years ago. So extraordinary has been their artistic and financial success as Shakespearean stars they have come to be considered the chief dramatic institution of the American stage.

RACE MEET WILL BE A BIG ATTRACTION

Large Crowds Are Expected at Motorcycle Races at Local Track Tomorrow Afternoon.

With one of the largest and best entry lists for a motorcycle event ever scheduled in this state the Jansville Motorcycle club's big speed contest at the grounds of the Jansville Park association tomorrow afternoon promises one of the largest crowds of the season.

Seven big events and forty-seven miles of racing will make up the program which has been arranged by A. W. Dunwiddie, clerk of the course. Some of the best riders in this region will be here for the event and expert evaluators on the grounds for exhibition rides.

Recent rains have been bad for the track, but if there is no more rainfall before the events the speedway will be in good condition.

The Horrid Man's Curl.
"There's no sight so pitiful to me," said the pretty girl, "as the painful attempt on the part of the man beginning to be bald to make a little curl in the middle of his forehead of the few remaining strands of hair. And still, I know they don't deserve any pity. I never have found a man yet with such a curl who wasn't horrid."

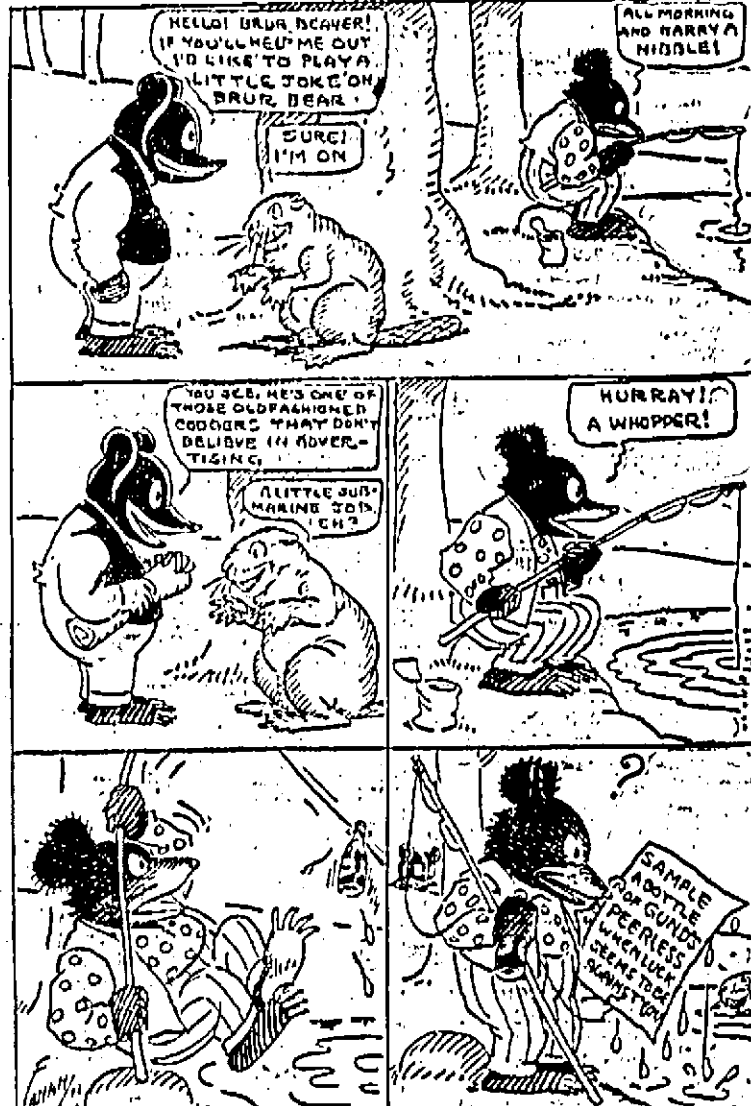

Not Sufficient Explanation.
The theory that our sins are simply the survival of certain animal instincts is plausible, but it will not work.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The daily feature, "Forty Years Ago," published in the Gazette, calls back to the old inhabitant many pleasant and sacred memories. In a recent issue of the paper appeared the names of some twenty prominent citizens who met at a public hall to arrange a program for Memorial day in 1872.

This self-appointed committee was composed of men and women who lived in the days of civil strife, and to them the war was a sad reality. They lived at a time when every heart was touched with sympathy, and every hand bowed in reverence on Memorial day.

Forty years have wrought many changes. The members of the old-time committee have passed on and today their names are recorded in the silent city on the hill. The boys in blue, who led the procession back in the years when everybody turned out to show them reverence, have most of them departed, and today but a remnant remains to pay homage to the memory of the comrades of '63.

With the passing, the day has lost something of its significance, for a new generation occupies the center of the stage, and what they know of the Civil war is largely gleaned from history. As a result the day has become a holiday, and is largely devoted to pleasure.

The cemetery is no longer thronged with people, on Memorial day, but the duty of paying homage to the dead, and scattering a tribute of flowers, is left to a little group of survivors, whose hearts still glow with camp-fire memories.

In the procession which escorted General Grant's remains up Fifth avenue, New York, the other day, were three thousand regulars from the army and navy. Following the riders on horse, near the rear of the procession, was the guard of honor, some sixty strong, composed of old veterans from the Brooklyn G. A. R. Post, of which R. W. King—the drummer boy who went out from Janesville in 1861—is a member.

White-haired and bent with the weight of years, the little company marched from the Battery to Forty-fourth street, a distance of five miles, to pay a last tribute of respect to the son of the man who had led them "on to Richmond" nearly half a century ago.

The father was the central figure, back in the years when the nation was rent in twain, but the great army which he led has dwindled to a handful. The son, who died at his post as commander of the Eastern division, was a general in those of peace. He was a product of the new generation, respected and beloved, because of his bright and because of his many qualities.

The link which binds the old and new together is a sacred link, and while old-time customs may be abandoned, Memorial day will continue to be a reminder of loyalty and sacrifice, for many years to come.

The day that we celebrate tomorrow is more than a holiday. The memories which cluster about it are sacred memories which should inspire every heart, with gratitude and appreciation. "Patriotism" is the name we use for love of country. It lies dormant in the heart of every loyal American citizen, ready for action at a moment's notice. It can afford to turn aside for an hour in recognition of the men who responded so freely to its demands when the life of the nation hung in the balance.

EDUCATING THE CITIZEN OF TOMORROW.

"By industrial education it now devolves upon us in very important respects to shape the lives of the children of today, and thereby to make the men and women of tomorrow—the Americans of tomorrow. Each year 2,500,000 children graduate from our elementary schools, proud and confident in having accomplished the first great task of their lives in successfully finishing the eight years' course with credit. An equal number of children, a vast army of two and a half million little ones, most of them only fourteen years of age, leave these same schools discarded, unsuccessful, aimless, most of them having gotten no farther than the sixth grade, having learned little else than the three R's, not educated in any sense, but only possessed of the rudiments whereby real education may be acquired. They have been, in a way, schooled only in how to fail. These are the children who go into the industries, and deserve and require industrial or trade education."

This paragraph is from a late bulletin of the Wisconsin State Board of Industrial Education. It is suggestive of neglect and lack of intelligence in supervising the education of the masses, and it is gratifying to know that these defects are at last recognized by educators. Industrial education appeals to the average boy and girl, for it prepares for entrance to the channel where life is to be spent, as a matter of necessity, in a large number of cases. The time is not far distant when every school will develop this department as one of the most important. Preparation for life and not for the college, is the popular demand.

The results of the New Jersey primary yesterday does not particularly change the convention outlook. The balance of power is with the contesting delegates, and these comprise one-fifth of the whole number. If the administration is in control, Taft will be nominated, but if bulldog tactics are adopted, as they were at Madison, a few years ago, the Colonel will win out. It remains to be seen whether the individual is stronger than the party.

The Mexican rebellion, which is still progressing at a merry pace, is playing havoc with American property across the border and the protection offered by the United States is so much of a farce that it amounts to nothing. Japan has an eye on Mexico and that little nation will hear watching. This government can well afford to sell Japan her interests in the Philippines and keep her interests nearer home.

The annexation of Cuba may be the only solution of the Cuban problem. Not only American interests are suffering, but the property of other nations is involved, and they look to us for protection, as they have a right to do. The American government has a number of troops in the fire, just now, which are liable to get hot at both ends, and Cuba seems to be the least important.

Lamp Chimneys.

In country houses the breaking of lamp chimneys often causes a great deal of bother. I have found if one will put all new chimneys in a pall of cold water and put on the fire to boil for a couple of hours the chimneys will last twice as long as an ordinary one.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

THE RAGGED SCHOOLS OF ENGLAND.

By A. W. MACY.

Juvenile delinquency reached its maximum in England about the middle of the last century. During the five years ending 1842 one-third of those committed for trial in the courts of England were under twenty years of age. In London alone it was estimated there were 30,000 children under sixteen who depended on thieving for their existence. In 1839 a Scotch gardener living in London concluded he would do something for these "Arabs of civilization," and set up a school, in a stable, for the purpose of reclaiming some of them if possible. The excellent results obtained attracted attention, and many other people became interested in the welfare of these outcasts. This was the beginning of the "ragged schools," which now form a prominent feature of elementary education in England. Some idea of their importance may be gained from the statement that while there are about 800,000 children under the care of the London school board, 150,000 others are handled by these voluntary "ragged schools."

DINNER STORIES

There is in existence a very modest man who, though now peacefully employed, has in his day seen fighting in many parts of the globe. His friends know this and lose no opportunity to draw him out about his thrilling war adventures. But the veteran's modesty is such that his tales are more than likely to be colorless and disappointing. Once some of his friends cornered him and by artful subterfuges led the conversation straight to a certain battle in which, as they knew, the veteran had participated. In a moment of carelessness he allowed himself to be trapped into statements regarding that battle. Whereupon, noting that he had warned to the subject, "one of his friends, suddenly said: "You were in that battle, weren't you?" "Yes," confessed the veteran, much embarrassed. "Tell us about your experiences on that day," commanded one of the gathering. There was a breathless silence. The fighter saw there was no way out of it. "On that day," he began slowly, "at a conservative estimate—all learned forwarded eagerly—"I ran twelve miles."

The junior member of the old law firm of Goldsmith, Colston, Headley and Johnson having used the phrase "a shining ornament of the Cincinnati bar" in referring to some other lawyer, Murat Halstead seized upon the phrase and thereupon invariably referred to Mr. Johnson as "the brass ornament of the Cincinnati bar." At an evening gathering Mr. Halstead saw a handsome woman, he begged to be presented, and was—Mrs. Johnson. It did not occur to him who the lady might be. He was curious, about her, "Johnson, Johnson," he repeated; "I have never had the pleasure of meeting you before, Mrs. Johnson. Do you live in Ohio?" "Oh, yes," replied the lady, brimming over with smiles, "I live in Cincinnati." "Indeed!" said Mr. Halstead quite astonished; "may I inquire of what family of Johnsons you are?" The smiles were more than merry this time. "Mr. Halstead," she replied, "for fifteen years I have been trying to polish up the brass ornament of the Cincinnati bar!"

Chinese Workers in Cuba.

John Chinaman is ubiquitous in Havana. The census of 1899 shows a Chinese population of 2,751, and here as elsewhere they are industrious members of the community. Chinamen are seen carrying burdens swung from balanced shoulder poles after the manner of their native country. On the outskirts of the city and in the suburbs are extensive Chinese truck farms. The market garden industry is largely in their hands. The Chinese quarter is in Zanja and Aguila streets. The Chinese theater is in Zanja street. The Chinese in Cuba are reminders of the coolie trade which brought here hundreds of thousands to virtual slavery. They were imported under a contract to serve eight years at $1 a month, and the planters paid $100 for them.—Havana Post.

Ordering by Mail:

A letter came from a quite distant point the other day. The writer said, "I bought an Oriental rug from you a couple of years ago and it has given such special satisfaction to us that I want you to pick out for me a couple more of these Oriental rugs which I see you are advertising. I think a store which treated me so well once, may be trusted to do it again." The store's mail order service reaches to any point; but especially for Janesville people who become out-of-towners in the summer it is well organized.

EDWARD HALLEN SHOT BY JULIA LINDLEY; DIES OF WOUNDS

FORMER JANESVILLE RESIDENT KILLED BY HIS PARAMOUR
IN LANSING, MICHIGAN,
LAST NIGHT.

DESERTED WIFE HERE

To Run Away With Woman of the Streets and Later Sought Reconciliation With His Wife, Who Was to Have Joined Him.

Dispatches from Lansing, Mich., today tell of the murder of Edward Hallen, formerly of this city by Julia Lindley, a woman who conducted a respectable resort on Academy street until ordered out of town by the police shortly after New Year's. Hallen was an extra policeman and at the time of his disappearance left a wife and child here, to take up his life with the Lindley woman.

The first dispatch merely gave the fact of the shooting, but a later one from a special correspondent of The Gazette in Lansing, gives more of the sordid details. Hallen was well known about the city and his wife, who was also a Janesville woman, had the sympathy of many for the ill treatment she had received at the hands of her husband. She was either on her way to join her husband, or was waiting for him in Rockford when the shooting occurred, having agreed to join him and become reconciled. The dispatch from Lansing is as follows:

Shot to Kill.
Lansing, Mich., May 23.—Julia Lindley shot and killed Edward Hallen at their apartments last night. They ran away from Janesville, Wis., a few months ago. The woman was angry because her lover told her he was going back to his wife and child whom he had deserted and who now live in Rockford, Ill.

Deserted At.
"I told him I had but thirty-five cents and asked him to give me a dollar in order that I might move my trunk," said the woman in confessing her crime. "If he had given me that dollar I don't believe I would have shot him; but the sneering manner in which he asked me to go back to my old work in the streets to gain a living stirred up something that caused me to pull the revolver from under the mattress and shoot."

Letters Found.
In a letter to her husband, Mrs. Hallen says she holds no ill feeling towards Julia Lindley, but that she would like to be a friend to her. The murders wrote a reply to this before she lost her temper and shot her lover. In it she tells the pitiful story of her life, which led her to go on the streets to support her child.

Edward Hallen came to Janesville from Rockford about eight years ago. His first appearance here was as a wrestler and he had several bouts before the Eagles Athletic club. He later developed into a ball player and played with various teams of the Commercial league, catching for the Gazette, Janesville Machine Company and later for the Parker Pans. He was well known as an athlete and kept himself in the best possible trim.

He became an extra policeman several years ago, acting as relief for the various regular members of the force during their vacation periods and acting as extra officer in time of need. He was coming to Janesville, he had learned the work of restaurant cook and worked in this capacity for several local restaurants acting as night cook and manager for Harry's Cafe when he left suddenly in January last without even warning his employer of his intention. He also worked for a short time for the Parker Pan Company.

Hallen's father resides in Rockford and is a blacksmith, his name is Gus Hallen. When he first came to Janesville he took the name of Dobbin, while working rather than his own, his parents objecting to his becoming a professional wrestler. He was known by both names and many will remember him as Dobbin rather than Hallen.

Left Janesville.
Hallen left Janesville early in January after a serious quarrel with his wife, formerly Grace Haney, daughter of Frank Haney of this city, over his attentions to a woman known as Julia Lindley, who resided on Academy street. Mr. and Mrs. Hallen had one child, a little girl now four, and had apparently been happy until the woman, whose first name was Julia, entered their lives. Hallen was supposed to have left Janesville the night after the hand quarrel with his wife, in company with Julia, whom it is said the police ordered to move.

It is known the couple went to Rockford and later to Chicago and from there to Lansing, Michigan. Here Hallen obtained employment in an automobile concern and a few weeks ago began correspondence with his wife with a view of reconciliation. Mrs. Hallen had remained in Janesville until a few days ago when she received a letter from her husband asking her forgiveness and pleading with her to join him in Lansing. She left for Rockford where her child was and to await a letter from her husband with money for the journey for herself and child to Lansing.

This was ten days ago and she wrote a postal to a friend here telling of her intentions to start last Tuesday. As the dispatch from Lansing says nothing about her presence there, it is possible she had not yet started, although her arrival there might have had something to do with the shooting.

CONTESTED DIVORCE CASE TO PLAINTIFF

Mrs. Louis Brandt of Beloit Granted Divorce by Judge Grimm and Custody of Two Children.

After the hearing of testimony from twelve or more witnesses in which family troubles were given an unpleasant airing before Judge Grimm in the circuit court yesterday, Grace A. Brandt was granted a divorce from her husband, Louis E. Brandt, who contested the case, filing the counterclaim of adultery. Both parties are from Beloit.

The custody of the oldest child, a boy of nine years, was given to the husband, and the two other children, a girl of eight and a boy of seven, will remain with their mother. The court also ordered that the defendant pay to the plaintiff for the support of the children the sum of three dollars a week.

Grounds for divorce set up in the complaint and substantiated by the witnesses for Mrs. Brandt were cruel and inhuman treatment. Of this the court found the defendant "guilty." On the charge of adultery set up by the defendant as a counterclaim against his wife, the court found her "not guilty." A. J. Cunningham was the plaintiff's attorney, and H. W. Adams for the defendant.

Witnesses for the plaintiff which took the stand were Gilbert Hannell, Walter Schoenfeldt, Mrs. Helen G. Hill, Dr. Ella Vanderlinder and John S. Porter. Mrs. Brandt did not take the stand. Later on the stand Mr. Brandt emphatically denied that he had had any improper relations with other women or had suggested that his wife had been implicated in any improper actions. He further stated that he had given his salary to the support of his wife and family and that on occasions he had turned over from three to four hundred dollars most of the time, he said, and his wages went to the groceries and for rent. He denied spending money for liquor, tobacco or gambling. Other witnesses called for the defendant were Joseph Brady and Earl Dehart.

Judgment of Foreclosure.

Judge Grimm filed his finding of fact and conclusions of law yesterday afternoon in the case of the Tobacco Exchange Bank vs. T. A. Perry et al. in an action for the foreclosure of two mortgages and to determine the amount due on the secured indebtedness. The case had previously been tried by the court. Judge Grimm found that there is now due on the said mortgages and indebtedness the sum of $8,680.40 and he ordered a judgment of foreclosure for that amount. On the motion of the defendant's attorney a stay of sixty days was ordered for time of service of notice of entry of judgment.

Perry vs. McIntosh.

The case of T. A. Perry, executor of the estate of Oscar C. Perry, vs. A. McIntosh, both parties of Edgerton, was called before Judge Grimm this morning. The action was brought to secure the proceeds from the sale of corporation stock in the Monarch Development, Mining and Reduction company, alleged to have been converted by the defendant. The amount sued for is $14,000 and the accrued interest from April 1908.

Witnesses called on the plaintiff's side of the case this afternoon were H. S. Shinn, A. McIntosh, adversely and T. A. Perry. Minutes of the company, the checks paid out, and other papers were offered in evidence.

CITIZENS COMPLAIN OF CUT-OUT RACKET

Chief of Police Appleby Warns Auto and Motorcycle Drivers to Cease Objectionable Practice.

Numerous complaints are being made to the police and city officials of the excessive use of the muffler cut-out by drivers of automobiles and motorcycles, and Chief of Police Appleby is warning that drastic action will be taken. Chauffeurs operating same type of cars are the most consistent offenders, although having the least excuse to open the cut-out. One never climbs Milwaukee street hill without making a much racket as a muffling gun, and even leaves the cut-out open in coming down hill. Motorcycle drivers are also credited with being careless in this matter. Many cities have ordinances providing penalties for abuse of the cut-out and its use as a warning signal. Careful tests have demonstrated that the opening of the muffler cut-out gives no increase of power for speeds up to thirty miles an hour, which is all that the state law permits on country roads, so the practice is indefensible.

dead veterans of the Civil War, in lecture to the students and others interested in the school, on the subject,

MAKING GOOD PROGRESS
IN ROCK RIVER SURVEY

Triangulation Party Has Reached Afton and Sounding Party the Monterey Dam.

Good progress is being made in the Rock river survey now being conducted under the authority of the United States government. Engineer H. E.
Reeves stated this afternoon that the triangulation party had established stations as far down as Af-ton, and that the hydrographic party, which is making frequent soundings for depth, had reached the Monterey dam. The level-taking party will be set to work in a day or two. Engineer Reeves, who with an assistant has been examining the maps and data in the office of City Engineer C. V. Korsh, states that the city engineer has an exceptional collection of valuable information for a city the size of Janesville and that he finds it very helpful.

NEW SCREEN ORDINANCE IS GENERALLY OBSERVED

But Two Violations Reported And
These Excuse of Delay in Obtaining Services of Carpenter.

Chief of Police George Appleby reported this morning that the new screen ordinance, which went into effect last night, was generally observed by the saloons and barrooms of the city. But two violations were reported to him by the patrolmen, and on investigation he found that the offending proprietors had been unable to secure the services of a carpenter in time to make the necessary changes in their fixtures. They were told to hurry up and comply with the ordinance or there would be trouble ahead.

Meeting Postponed: The regular meeting of the local Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which was to have been held tomorrow evening, has been postponed one week owing to the impossibility of holding a session. At the next meeting there will be an intention of several candidates.

wed was issued at the office of the

Soon Pays for Itself The Under-feed Cuts Coal Bills 1-2 to 2-3

The Underfeed does more than pay for itself — it makes money for its owner by effecting, for practically a lifetime, an annual saving of 1/2 to 2/3 in fuel expense.

what it means to you. If you are in the market for a furnace, write for FREE Underfeed Booklet.

The economy and efficiency of Underfeed heating are easily explained. Cheap slack coal and pen and buckwheat sizes of hard and soft coal yield in the Underfeed more heat, cleaner heat and more even heat than highest priced coal burned in other heaters.

THE WILLIAMSON
PECK UNDERFEED FURNACES

Coal is fed from below Fire is on top and sides, in direct contact with the most effective radiating surfaces. In top feed furnaces the reverse is true—fresh coal blankets the fire, causing alternating chill and overheat, discomfort and coal waste. In the Underfeed, smoke and gases pass up through the fire, are consumed and make more heat. The Underfeed assures perfect combustion—the utilizing of all heating elements. No smoke. No soot, no cinders and but few ashes.

If you are about to build, if your furnace is unsatisfactory, if you still depend on stoves or grates—write for FREE furnace booklet.

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK SINGS THEM TO SLEEP, BUT NOT AT FESTIVAL PRICES

Maria Theresa, and George, children of Schumann-Heink.

How would you like to have a child in which you would need to sleep with lullabies sung by Mme. Schumann-Heink?

Here are two children who have that rare good fortune, the youngest of the famous singers' large brood. The daughter is a gentle miss of sixteen, with a lovely face and modest demeanor. She is named Maria Theresa, after the Empress of Austria, who is one of Mme. Schumann-Heink's great list of international friends. The boy is named George Washington, after the first president. He is ambitious to lead a military career.

A mathematician could easily figure out how these children have heard about a million dollars worth of lullabies. But Mme. Schumann-Heink never charged them festival prices when she lulled them to sleep with her music, magnificent voice.

"Love Me, Love My Dog."
The women who believe in these sentiments will be made happy by one of the new luxurious valises in which to place the pampered pet while traveling. The valises are lined with white goat fur and are real nests of comfort. A series of holes in the side admit plenty of fresh air, while at the other side of the valise is a species of grill or wire lattice work which enables the dog to see all that is passing. Usually the valise is of leather, with its owner's name and address on an engraved brass label, and there are leather handles to enable it to be carried easily in the hand.

Old His Duty Nobly.
When the meningitis epidemic broke out in Texas it was necessary that the serum to combat the disease be administered by one familiar with its use. Dr. Saphian—the physician chosen—was sent to the field from New York. A few days later he was in the midst of the epidemic, working twenty or more hours a day, tending all his energies to the humanitarian work he was sent to perform. "When medical men work like this and fall a prey to disease, exposure or strain we honor them as martyrs," says the Journal of the American Medical association.

MRS. HAMMOND ON PICKING HUSBANDS

Mrs. John Hays Hammond, wife of the famous mining engineer, gives ten don'ts to girls contemplating matrimony. They are:

- "Don't marry a man for money."
- "Don't be afraid to marry a man because he has been in love before."
- "Don't let any other woman influence your judgment in choice. Choose for yourself."
- "Don't accept any gifts except candy, books or flowers, and a man's heart-whole affection until the wedding day, or near it."
- "Don't marry a man for ancestry alone, for stock runs out."
- "Don't marry a foreigner. It requires a sacrifice of individuality."
- "Don't marry because of popularity."
- "Don't marry without getting the advice of a physician."
- "Don't marry unless the man is honest and competent in the affairs of life."
- "Don't abandon all common sense in your choice."

Is Golf Scotch or Dutch?
The origin of golf, one of the most popular pastimes in the United Kingdom, has generally been ascribed to Scotland. But this is a fallacy. Late, however, it is asserted that it is to Holland we owe this game, and that it was brought from Holland to Scotland. For instance, the name "golf" itself is derived from the Dutch word "rolf," meaning a ball or club. "Fore!"—the word shouted before driving off—is derived from the Dutch word "vor," meaning, in front. From "putt" (the Dutch word to hole—we get our English word put; and nibble—the Scotch "nibble," a knob of wood—is derived from the Dutch knobbe lachtig, meaning knobby.

DANGER IN OVER MUCH VARIATION IN FEEDING.

Darwin and other naturalists have shown that variation, the tendency to develop new species, is dependent upon food, that in the lowest forms of life, the character of the animal is seen to closely resemble its food. Modern pathology is based upon the life of the cells, of which all the tissues of the body are composed. There must be in the world of cells the same tendency to variation that there is in organized animal life, and this tendency must be stimulated by variation in feeding. In the world of organized animals harmony is based upon uniformity in feeding habits and it is reasonable to suppose that the same influences are at work in producing variation in cell life, so that the essential factor in the variation in cell growth that constitutes cancer is variation in feeding—complex diet. This indicates the method of prevention of this dread disease, which authorities say is increasing in all civilized countries.

One Way to Reduce the Cost of Living

IF the present high cost of living would work for good in unexpected ways it is being proven every day. This problem that has been thrust upon our pocketbooks comes home so vitally to every one of us that it becomes an absolute necessity to put our wits to work to see what we can do to solve it. We cannot treat it with indifference, we cannot complacently say it affects others but not us. We cannot conclude that it is only for a little while and we can stand it. It comes right into our everyday life. It makes for inconvenience, discomfort, positive unhappiness. And every day that it confronts us it is a serious menace to the well-being of the family. So that it is necessary to take hold of it and vanquish it.

All sorts of people are taking hold of it and trying to solve it, from economic writers even to the legislators of the land who are putting their mighty brains to the task and instituting searching investigations that so far, however, have yielded little practical result. But the wheels of all such machinery, even should it accomplish anything, turn slowly, and in the meanwhile we suffer. So here and there little groups of determined, practical women have taken up the problem and are getting immediate, good results.

One such group is the wives of millworkers in an industrial section of Philadelphia, Pa. The high cost of living pressed particularly hard here. The women who ran the homes saw that something must be done and done at once, for husbands and children would not have enough nourishing food to keep them in health.

So these women got together, talked the matter over and decided upon co-operative buying. Each subscribed twenty dollars to put the plan in operation. They rented a room, engaged a man to manage the business and then they bought at wholesale prices the foodstuffs they needed. Thus they cut out all profits on the cost of their meats and groceries and much of the usual expense in handling them. They had no waste stock, nothing for show, and they were sure of the quality of the goods they secured.

The cost to them of what they needed for the table was so phenomenally low compared to what they had been paying, that soon nearly all the women of the neighborhood were clamoring to share in such a good thing. In the few months it has been running, the "co-operative store," for that is what it is now called, has grown remarkably. It is really now doing a big business, but the housekeepers themselves rather in the profits of the business in the way of reduced cost of commodities.

And even if in time, prices drop, it is doubtful if this store will go out of existence. It has proven itself too valuable. And in addition to the good results financially, there are other benefits. For the work is broadening these women and showing them the value of getting together, and it will undoubtedly develop into co-operation in other things.

So, there are two faces to everything. And this high cost of living has good gifts for us, if we have the eye to see them. It may lead to movements for betterment in many directions. And the housekeeper who is worrying over the problem of making income and outgo match, who is discouraged or disheartened at the state of her pocketbook, should not let her hands in despair. But let her face the problem hopefully as having some good for her concealed about it. Let her study it carefully from all sides, and see if she and the other women of her neighborhood cannot wrest a shining victory on the financial side of living from what now seems defeat.

A Woman's Observations

By Edna K. Wooley.

EVEN A MAYOR MAY NOT KNOW

ALL.

A certain mayor of a certain large city intimated in an address a few days ago that the modern woman hasn't enough to do to keep her out of mischief. The life of the modern woman is rapid and empty, as evidenced in the society columns of the newspapers, he contended, and something must be done to return to her the responsibilities and burdens that our grandmothers gloried in.

As to our grandmothers glorifying in their burdens—maybe they did, but most of them didn't live long enough to do much glorifying. The strain of being a woman in those days didn't conduce to longevity. Look in the old graveyards, when you feel a chance, and you will discover that most of our grandmothers and great-grandmothers passed beyond in a well-earned rest, somewhere between thirty and forty years of age. And they were old, bent-over and paler-faced when they should have been in the prime of life.

The average wife of this country does her own housework. Doing one's own housework, with three children (the average American family) is no joke. If you don't believe it, try it. And while we have modern houses and modern conveniences to help the housewife, remember that her duties are just as arduous as her grandmother's, though they have changed in form.

Once upon a time a woman was privileged to let her shape go to seed—usually after the second child. She could wear any old kind of calico dress—filthy and cheapness were the only considerations—all day long. For dress she put on a white apron. Also, she twisted her hair into a convenient knot and left it that way all day.

She wasn't expected to retain her youth or charm, and if she made any effort to continue good-looking she was severely censured.

But today the wife must be up and doing if she is to retain her husband's regard.

The called-down-for-all-day no longer serves. Madame must be respectably dressed at least in the afternoon and evening. She must manage to look quite like a lady while she does the chores of a housemaid, a nursemaid and quite often, a washwoman.

She must always be smiling, and gracious, and a good companion; smooth of brow, white of hand, symmetrical of form, quite up-to-date in her dress; an intelligent mother, an efficient housewife, perfectly at home

DOUBLY PROVEN.

Janesville Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This Janesville citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of lasting benefit.

The facts are now confirmed. Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 118 Terrace St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney trouble for ten or twelve years. My kidneys became sluggish and their failure to do their work properly caused me to become weak and listless. The kidney secretions were very unnatural and often my joints were sore and swollen. I had almost given up hope of getting relief when I had the good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a supply at the People's Drug Co., and they soon restored my kidneys to a normal condition. I advise other kidney sufferers to try this remedy." (Statement given in August, 1908.)

CONFIRMED PROOF.

Mrs. Johnson was interviewed on September 23, 1910, and she added to the above: "I take pleasure in again recommending Doan's Kidney Pills and advising their use in all cases of kidney trouble. I am still free from kidney complaint and my back does not bother me to any extent."

The KITCHEN CABINET

TO BE truly happy is a question of how we begin and how we end, of what we want and not of what we have.

WHAT TO EAT IN WINTER.

During the cold winter months our bodies are able to assimilate heavier food. Many foods combine both to nourish the tissues and warm the body, and it is these foods which are now of especial interest to the housewife who is planning meals for her family.

Cereals are a valuable food, as they are both tissue builders and heat producers. Lean meat and a goodly portion of fat, milk, eggs and cereals with many kinds of vegetables as are procurable, will make a well arranged diet.

Butter is heating and should only be eaten during the cold weather, as it is especially a cold weather food. Pork is heavy, hearty and hard on digestion, so should be largely eaten during cold weather, when exercise and work will help to eliminate the waste.

The age, sex, physical condition, and occupation is a great factor in determining the diet at any season.

Members of the family who do not get much bodily exercise, but whose brain is taxed, should have food easy on digestion as well as nourishing and should have food that is especially good for the blood.

To keep up the bodily energy, supply heat and build up waste tissues we need starchy food, sugars, butter, cream, as well as meat and fats.

Macaroni and cheese is a combination with the white sauce used, which gives one a dish of solid food. To cook macaroni, drop the inch pieces into rapidly boiling water and boil gently until perfectly tender. The test for tenderness is to take out a piece, press with the side of a fork; if tender, it will be easily cut. Put a layer of the cooked macaroni into a buttered baking dish, pour over a little white sauce made of rich milk and thickened with butter and flour cooked together. Season and sprinkle with a generous layer of cheese, and if one feels able at this season of the year, a hard-boiled egg or two cut in halves, then follow with another layer of macaroni and cheese and white sauce, sprinkle a teaspoonful of onion juice over, cover with white sauce and finish with buttered crumbs. Bake until well heated.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged to be married this June, but I am afraid my love is growing cold. I don't like the wedding day, and do not care even to see my fiancée.

Please help me. BESSIE.

Why not tell the young man frankly just how you feel. It would be a mistake to marry without love. However, there may be a chance that you are moody, and that on reflection you may decide that you wish to marry. After all, I would counsel a postponement rather than an absolute break.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am living with relatives, and unfortunately we do not get along very well. I am a girl of twenty-two, an orphan, and was left with my aunt to be brought up. I work and am independent, but I do not like to think of going out to be alone in the world, as would be the case if I left my aunt's home.

JENNIE.

If I were you, I would first try every reasonable method to secure harmony. Perhaps you can make

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE FORBIDDEN TOPIC.

"AND how do you do, this morning?" I saluted a casual acquaintance of mine.

I meant the question merely as a form of greeting, but the lady took it in the literal sense, and proceeded to fully enlighten me. "Well, my indignation is a little better this morning," she declared, "but my rheumatism is worse. It kept me awake from four o'clock on. I've been taking some new pills for it but I had to give them up because they upset my stomach and." Exactly what other damages the pills worked in her sensitive system, I failed to hear, for someone interrupted our pleasant chat just then, but I tried to hear up under the loss and not feel too curious.

And this woman was only a casual acquaintance! What would she have told me if I had been an intimate friend?

There is one topic peremptorily forbidden to all well-bred, to all rational mortals, namely their ailments, says Emerson. "If you have not slept, or if you have slept, if you have headache, or scurvy, or leprosy or thunder stroke, I beseech you by all angles to hold your peace, and not pollute the morning, to which all the housewives bring serene and pleasant thoughts, by corruption and gloom."

How many of us disregard this prohibition, probably not so flagrantly as the woman I have quoted, but in some degree!

In the last five years there has been an influx of a new kind of article into our magazines—the health article. We are told everything imaginable about our bodies and the care of them, how to avoid this disease, what the first symptoms of that abnormal condition are, etc., etc. In many ways I think these articles are a splendid thing, but I sometimes wonder if the subject is not on the verge of being overdone. Is it not possible to concentrate public attention upon the body and the ill to which it is heir, to live normally and to recognize danger signals when something is wrong, but is it not possible to know and think too much about our hearts and our stomachs, our rheumatism and our nerves?

I have known several people who have had nervous prostration, and practically all of them were people who had a little too much to think. I know one woman who has a right to have nervous prostration if anyone ever had. She's held a tremendously strenuous and responsible position for twelve years. During this time she has often worked two or three evenings a week, as well as a long day, and during the last year she has been acting as night nurse for an invalid sister, sometimes getting but two or three hours sleep and always sleeping the time half sleep of the watcher. But when people say to this girl: "You will break down. You will have nervous prostration," she says: "Oh, no, I can't. I haven't time to." And I don't believe she will.

There is such a thing as knowing too little about the body, its care and its needs.

There is also such a thing as talking and thinking too much about our health.

To understand the functions of the body enough to try to live rightly, and beyond this to think and talk as little as possible about the whole matter—this, I think, is a golden mean between these two extremes.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

By Henrietta D. Grauel

Bananas, at this season, are in many places, the cheapest of fruits, as well as the most wholesome and nutritious. In such parts of the world where they can be produced perfectly ripened and fresh from the trees, they form the principal article of diet.

They contain a small quantity of protein and fat and are almost one-fourth carbohydrates; banana flour is even more nutritious than the fruit owing to the fact that the drying process preparatory to the manufacture removes the moisture contained in the fresh fruit.

It is said that a pound of ripe banana is equal to three pounds of meat, and many more calories. In nutrition, its frying and baking appetizing dishes may be made. Combined with oranges and sugar they make a delicious dessert. They are a pleasant addition to fruit salad and alone make an excellent fruit for breakfast.

Bananas Fried:—Peel the fruit and scrape off the threads, cut in halves, lengthwise. Roll in flour and place in a wire basket, fry in deep fat until they acquire a fine brown. Apple sauce or marmalade may be served with them or a sauce made of current jelly and preserved cherries.

They may also be fried in a little butter in a shallow frying pan. The bananas must be ripe.

Banana Pie will be enjoyed if you are fond of bananas—Slice fresh ripe bananas into a pastry shell, add bits of butter, cover with sugar and season with spice and two tablespoons of vinegar, or elder or fruit jelly. Bake with an upper crust.

Banana Bombe:—Peel about three bananas and remove the threads and fuzz and press through a fruit sieve. There should be a cup and a half of the pulp. To it add three-fourths of a cup of sugar and the juice of half a lemon, cook the mixture over hot water until thoroughly scalded, then set aside to become cold. Beat a cup of double cream until firm. Cut enough citron, or candied cherries or apricots for a little of each in bits to fill a cup half full, mix with above and cover with fruit syrup of any well liked flavor and let stand an hour or longer. Have a quart mold lined with paper and thoroughly chilled. Add the whipped cream to the fruit and fill the mold to the top, cover with paper, press the cover down and pack in equal measures of saw and crushed ice.

Banana Ice Cream:—This is really a frozen banana custard. Scald a pint of milk in a double boiler, add a tablespoonful of cornstarch, dissolved in a little cold milk, and cook for twenty minutes, beat together yolks of three eggs and a cup and a half of sugar, add a little of the cooked milk and stir all into the double boiler. When it is just thick enough to coat the back of a spoon, strain and set away until cold, then add a cup of banana pulp, pressing the fruit through a pure sieve, add a pint of cream, lemon flavoring, and the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Freeze.

Banana Filling for Silver Cakes:—Sprinkle powdered sugar over the cake and slice on the bananas, cutting each slice as thin as possible. Cover the fruit with a little whipped sweetened cream, put on the next layer of cake and add more fruit, layer of cake and add more fruit. Do not put this mixture on top of the cake as the air will discolor it.

Bananas are more appetizing when combined with strawberries and cream; if the berries are large cut them in half using a silver knife. Place first a layer of the berries and between and over them lay slices of the bananas. When ready to serve cover with sugar and cream or heap sweetened whipped cream on the top.

In hot climates natives live mostly on bananas and such nations are said, by travelers, to be cured because the ease with which the inhabitants procure their living makes them too lazy for any exertion.

R. M. S.

A college education for a girl is chiefly of value for its cultural advantages. It is not worth sacrificing a father for in my opinion, I have seen so many good, wholesome high school girls spoiled by college experiences not wisely directed that I sometimes think a girl who enters college escapes some social dangers. It is fine for a girl to go to college, especially when her going does not mean too great a cost for someone else. Why not try your hand at earning some money for a year to apply on the expense? Perhaps your father can help you a year hence.

An Indignant Pussy.

The family cat was crying and spilling papa's reading of the evening paper, and he insisted that his small daughter put her pet out of doors. This she did very unwillingly, and, coming back, seated herself at her father's feet with the remark: "You don't ought to see the look on 'at cat's face, papa!"—Dellmont.

End That Kitchen Drudgery!

Quit Using Heavy, Greasy Pots, Kettles and Pans—Cook in UNION COOKERY BAGS

LET us womenfolks show the men that we are capable of successful management! In the business and industrial world we have lately heard much "scientific management"—cutting out every step of useless work. Why not apply it to the household?

The first thing to go should be the labor of scrubbing, scouring and polishing pots, kettles and pans—the same useless, tiresome work twice and sometimes three times every day. It can all be easily abolished.

When you go to a picnic you take paper napkins, paper plates, etc. You are out for a "good time"—and want no useless burdens. Why in the name of common sense should we not practise the same principle at home and have more "good times" and less work. Especially when the "good times and less work" plan gives better tasting and more wholesome dishes than the ordinary laborious methods.

We cook so that we may have good things to eat. Here is the oldest way to cook that the world has ever known—the best way, and we had almost forgotten it. But now thousands of housewives are bringing it into use again—only instead of using molds of earth or leaves of plants as cooking vessels, which was the ancient way, the modern home managers are using clean, sanitary, convenient Union Cookery Bags.

These bags are made of a special paper prepared for this purpose only. An ordinary bag will not do. Union Cookery Bags have the same shape and very much the same appearance as any plain, common bag—but are so made that they do not burn up or crumble while in a heated oven. The heat goes right through and thoroughly cooks the food inside. Be sure that you use "no bags except Union Cookery Bags."

Place the food—meat, fish, fowl or vegetable—directly in the Bag itself without any pan. The only time a pan is used with the Union Cookery Bag is when bread or cake is baked—just to hold the dough in shape. But even in this instance, when a pan also is used, the results obtained with a Union Cookery Bag are so far better than the results of baking in the pan alone, that you will never bake bread or cake without the Union Cookery Bag after you have once tried it. And using the Bag, in addition to the pan, is not a bit of trouble. The cakes have a delightful downy lightness—and the loaves of bread have a thin, rich brown crust all over the sides and bottom, instead of a heavy, thick crust on the top and scarcely any crust at all where the loaf has come in contact with the pan. And the inside of every loaf is just as "extra good" as the outside.

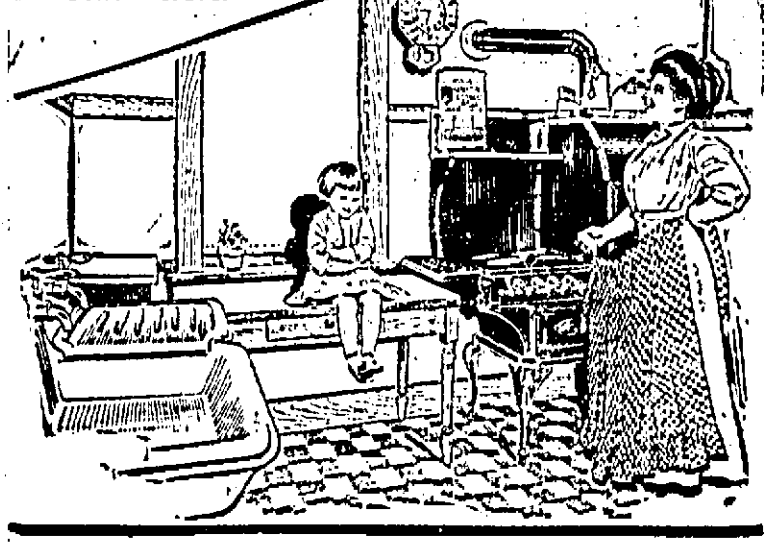

You do not need any pot or kettle or pan for cooking meats, fish, fowl, or vegetables in the Union Cookery Bag—for the Bag is tough enough to hold its contents securely, even when liquids are added. When the food is cooked, slip the Bag out of the oven onto a plate or platter, cut the Bag open with a knife, and there is all the food—not a particle of substance or juice or flavor lost in the cooking.

Union Cookery Bags save the 15% to 25% of a food that is lost in the ordinary way of cooking—a loss of food for which you are paying your money every day you cook without Union Cookery Bags.

Get a package of Union Cookery Bags at once—assorted sizes suitable for cooking all dishes—and bake bread as your first Union Cookery Bag experience. The outcome will be most gratifying. Bread is a good article to begin with—a good start toward soon cooking a whole dinner—and all meals—in these wonderful Bags. They are just as simple to use as can be—and only a little practice is needed until you know fully how to get the finest results from them with all foods.

A Free Book—with many recipes, written from experiences of expert chefs in Europe and America—has just been published, telling you everything you want to know and exactly how to use Union Cookery Bags for cooking all foods. These books are on free distribution at the office of this paper. Call and get your copy—just ask for the Paper Bag Cookery Book. Be sure to get this valuable free book—then go to your grocer, butcher, hardware or stationery dealer and get a package of Union Cookery Bags. If your dealer does not have them, insist that he get them for you, since they are sent directly from this wholesale house. Use Union Cookery Bags and

MAKES DONATION TO ORFORDVILLE CHURCH

Anonymous Friend Gives One Hundred Dollars for Purpose of Cap-peting Auditorium.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Orfordville, May 29.—Last Sunday morning the Rev. Salsbury announced to his congregation a most welcome piece of intelligence. Some few weeks ago the church decided upon a plan for refurbishing with new pews and pulpit furniture, and an anonymous friend with whom the pastor has been in communication, sent him the following letter:

Dear Bro. Salsbury: I rejoice to learn of the success of your work in Orfordville, and am very glad that your congregation has decided to go forward with the new scheme. Since hearing this my mind has been much exercised. Orfordville church is very near and dear to my heart. For many years I received divine blessing when worshiping there. And now in recognition of those occasions, as a thank-offering to God and as a mark of my high esteem for the work you are seeking to do there, I have decided to donate one hundred dollars to be spent in furnishing carpet for the auditorium of the church. Only one condition I must stipulate—that you on no account permit my name to appear in association with the gift. I am anxious to remain quite anonymous in the matter.

Naturally the news was received with a hum of satisfaction and the pastor then read the following letter which he sent to the nameless donor: "My Dear Friend, you cannot imagine the profound pleasure your generous decision has afforded the Orfordville church. On their behalf I am attempting to convey to you an expression of the heartfelt gratitude of the congregation. But in this matter, my terms seem inadequate to convey the appreciation realized. Your true reward cannot of course be proffered by us, but we earnestly believe that in your heart this day is the quietest satisfaction that you have used the means God has placed at your disposal to extend the kingdom of your master. Praying that the blessing of our Heavenly Father may rest upon you ever, believe me to be, yours sincerely, Wm. Salsbury."

In proof of their confirmation of his letter, the congregation rose and sang the doxology. The pastor delivered a singularly appropriate and suggestive sermon from the text "When Ye Reap the Harvest of Your Land, Thou Shalt not Wholly Reap the Corners of thy Field."

The regular social of the Young People's Fellowship class, which is to be held next Friday evening, will be quite a new departure. The whole evening's entertainment including refreshments is being provided for by the male members of the class. The men have arranged for a mock trial. Mr. F. Smiley of Jansville, has promised to attend as judge while the two counsels for prosecution and defense respectively are Mr. Chas. Taylor and W. Salsbury. An evening of unbroken pleasure is anticipated. An invitation is cordially extended to everybody to attend. The usual nominal charge of 10 cents will be made and the proceeds are towards the new fund.

GREAT DAMAGE DONE BY STORM IN CENTER

Windmill Blown Down, Doors and Windows Smashed, and Large Trees Broken by Heavy Wind.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Miller was demolished and the tool shed moved about four inches off its foundation.

The town board met on the road to be put in as a county road, last Friday afternoon, and let the contract to M. O'Neil of Leyden. Ed. SIDEWALK KETCHES.

PATRICK HENRY. By Howard L. Hann.

ONE hundred and seventy-six years ago today—Patrick Henry saw the light of day at Studley, Hanover county, Virginia, a state which has produced more double-decked statesmen than any other. The chief industry of Virginia at this period was producing patriots and domestic tobacco, and it has never had a shortage of either since. As a young man, Patrick did not cut much ice in his immediate vicinity, being a father, indolent by nature. He did not care for the musle of the law, and never immersed himself in the chores to any extent. His father finally started him in the grocery business, but Patrick was short-changed so often by an honest yeomanry that his stock dwindled away, to one dollar and a collection of copper-pennies and book accounts. He then tried farming, but on account of neglecting to test his seed corn he failed in a very abrupt and expensive manner. Having noticed that the law offered light and pleasing employment to nearly three-fourths of the male population, he learned the trade in about six weeks and put on the market a brand of eloquence which hypnotized every trial jury he came in contact with. There was quite a sentiment among the colonists in favor of raising their own postage stamps and cooking tea, and Patrick Henry was chosen to make a few remarks calculated to remove the blue look from the face of George III. In order to do this, Patrick had to look up some harsh and bristling words, which he hurled at King George in a speaking condition, winding up with the sublime phrase—"Give me liberty or give me death." A gentleman of Hanover county, who has a retentive memory, declares that in this speech Patrick Henry made old Dependencies look like the short end of a high school debate. After serving as governor for a couple of terms he returned to the law and died in the harness. Patrick Henry was not a self-seeker or a time-server. He refused a cabinet portfolio, a United States senatorship, and a French ambassadorship, and never held any office which did not come up behind him and throttle him as he could get away. He died on June 6, 1799, at the age of sixty-four years, but he lives in the hearts of his countrymen.

Why Not Buy Municipal Bonds and Have a Steady Income?

IF YOU are a person of moderate means we offer you an opportunity to invest your savings in the Municipal Bonds listed below and secure a steady income for a period as long as you choose.

Not only are these Municipal Bonds a most desirable form of investment because of the high percentage of interest which they pay, but from the standpoint of safety of money invested, they are unequalled by even Government Bonds.

This is not a mere statement, but it is absolutely true, and the reason is this: Municipal Bonds are really a mortgage on all the wealth of a city, town, village or country—just the same as a Government Bond is a mortgage on the credit and honor of a nation.

Nothing can be more secure. In each instance the municipality issuing bonds, and selling them to pay for some needed local improvement, such as new bridges, water works, etc., pledges the taxes of the entire community to pay interest on its loan for a certain number of years and the entire principal on demand without notice on the date of expiration.

Someone said a long time ago that "Nothing was certain but death and taxes"—and just so sure that taxes must be paid, just so certain can you be that every cent you invest in Municipal Bonds will be repaid—and with interest averaging from 4 1/2% to 5 1/2%.

The following unsold portions of Municipal Bonds, which are the direct obligation of growing, live towns in some of the richest parts of the country are well worth your instant consideration.

These bonds are the kind of security easily convertible into cash should you need currency at any time. They are not a speculation, but a safe, sure income-producing investment. Issued in sums from $500 up, they give you an opportunity to purchase one or more and secure the highest rate of interest for your money.

The First Cup of the New Food Drink Instant Postum will decide two important points Satisfaction and Economy

Instant Postum tastes much like those rich old Java Coffees that came from the Dutch plantations of the far East—so rare nowadays. And it is absolutely free from "caffeine," the drug in coffee, which has proven harmful to many coffee drinkers.

Instant Postum requires no boiling. Stir a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water; add cream and sugar to taste and instantly you have a rich food drink that is palatable and healthful.

Many coffee drinkers find this new beverage a healthful and delightful variation from their usual cup.

No Boiling--Made in the Cup

It saves time, money, and worry to the busy housewife, and its delicious flavour makes it popular in the household.

This containing sufficient quantity for about 100 cups of Instant Postum cost 50 cents, at grocers. Smaller tins at 30 cents make about 50 cups.

Coffee averages about double that cost.

In days of old, so I've been told, the knight who on a mission was sent to seek, week after week, for damsels in distress; he glinted faced and ogress chased and fought with sword and lance, and fell round when rescued would give him a grateful glance. In those old days the woodland ways with damsels crowded were, who needed aid, and so his blade sent clouds of flying fur. Those days are gone, so help me John, and knights are on the block; and helpless maid cries out for aid and succor, I don't think, if modern knight in armor bright went forth to succor damsels, he'd find a squad of girls abroad.

A thousand tongues could not express the gratitude of Mrs. J. R. Cox, of Joliet, Ill., for her wonderful deliverance from an awful fate. "Typhoid pneumonia" had left me with a dreadful cough," she writes. "Sometimes I had such awful coughing spells I thought I would die. I could get no help from doctor's treatment or other medicines till I used Dr. King's New Discovery. But I owe my life to this wonderful remedy for I scarcely cough at all now." Quick and safe in the most reliable of all throat and lung medicines. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c, and $1.00. Trial bottle free at People's Drug Co.

Volcanic Ash for Cement.

For some time a Japanese company has been engaged in the exploitation of the use of volcanic ash in connection with Portland cement and it is claimed that this combination is particularly valuable in the construction of works which are submerged in salt water. It is claimed that the cement thus formed possesses greater tensile strength, and is denser than ordinary Portland cement. It is thought that should this industry prosper it might well be extended to the Philippines, where a great deal of volcanic ash is available.

PUBLIC IS ASKED TO AID IN THE MATTER

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.

The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.
There are any number of corners in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.
Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience.

But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns.
The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.

Mourn for the Bride.
In Japan, land of flowers, they hold funeral services at the home of the bride's parents the night she is married. This is to show that the young lady is dead to her father and mother.
